EVENT IN PARIS DEDICATED TO THE ENTIRE GLOBAL INFRASTRUCTURE VALUE CHAIN

INFRAWEEK 2021 - INAUGURAL DAY

PARIS, 14.10.2021, 15:26 Time

USPA NEWS - The InfraWeek 2021 aims at organising an open dialogue on all main issues of Infrastructure Finance to contribute to addressing the above-mentioned challenges, through capitalising on the unrivalled expertise of the Paris financial center in arranging and financing infrastructure projects. There is now a clear need for strengthening expenditures in infrastructure in all regions of the world through a combination of public investment, corporate capex and public-private partnerships to meet the needs of the populations for basic infrastructure or more developed services. The key challenge is to improve matching investors with projects on the basis of a better pipeline of bankable projects.

The key challenge is to improve matching investors with projects on the basis of a better pipeline of bankable projects.

Infrastructure development is critical to delivering growth, reducing poverty and addressing broader development goals, as argued in the World Bank Report Transformation through Infrastructure (2012). An accessible, affordable, and reliable infrastructure network is crucial for development. It is necessary for powering business, lowering transactions costs, improving market access, and improving the efficiency of other productive factors, and it is prerequisite for providing people with access to important services such as education and health care, connecting workers to their jobs, and sharing the fruits of growth in an equitable manner. In the global arena, infrastructure is essential for the participation in the value chains to upgrade the economic structure.

Infrastructure includes hard (tangible) infrastructure and soft (intangible) infrastructure. Hard infrastructure often refers to transport system (such as roads, airports, port facilities, and rail), public utilities (such as energy, water supply and sewer, and irrigation), communication network (such as telecommunication and broadband), and social infrastructure (such as schools and hospitals). Soft infrastructure often refers to matters related to efficiency, such as institutions and regulations

Global value chains will undergo a drastic transformation in the decade ahead. The change will be driven by a push for greater supply chain resilience due to COVID-19, which adds to existing pressures from the technology revolution, growing economic nationalism, and the sustainability imperative. However, COVID-19 is not the only gamechanger. The crisis caused by the pandemic arrives on top of existing mega-challenges to the system of international production arising from the new industrial revolution. These challenges were already reaching an inflection point; the demand, supply and policy shocks caused by the pandemic are set to tip the scales.

How better identify a pipeline of bankable projects ? How make infrastructure spending more effective ? How identify the impediments that restrict the flow of financing ? How further integrate in bank and insurance regulation the specific nature of the infrastructure asset class ? How bring together public officials, corporates, equity providers, banks and multilaterals to structure, build and finance efficient and valuable projects ? And finally how finance to-morrow's infrastructures ? These are some of many questions to be addressed during the InfraWeek 2021.
